THE BREKMAN-ST. FIRE.

NEW-YORK, Dec. 21, 1861.

HERRING & CO., No. 251 Broadway, New-York.

GENTLEMEN: It has been our misfortune to have our place of business at No. 55 Beckman-st entirely destroyed by fire at 6 o'clock.

The Herring Patent Safe we purchased from you some time ago was in our office on the third floor of the building, and contained the property and effects of our firm. We succeeded in saving the safe this afternoon, and are happy to say that we found its entire contents, consisting of books, papers, insurance policies, bank-bills, &c., &c., all in a well-preserved condition, no injury whatever, except the leather covers, which are cured by the steam from the fire-proof composition.

MARVIN'S SAFES.

NEW-YORK, Dec. 27, 1861.

GENTLEMEN: Our store, with our entire stock of goods, was wholly destroyed in the fire of Friday night, and all we saved was our books and papers in one of your safes, which you may be sure is especially gratifying to us.

Even the loose bank-bills and papers are safe, well preserved.

Our safe was in the third story, and fell to the sub-cell, and, to be candid with you, had some damage of the result; but they prov'd entirely harmless. We shall want another as soon as we have a place to put it.

Yours truly,

SAM'L GLRN & BRO.,
late of No. 55 Beckman-st.MARVIN'S PATENT ALUM AND DRY PLASTER SAFES are warranted never to mold their contents or corrode the metal.MARVIN & CO., No. 265 Broadway.
